THE STATUE OF LIBERTY . . .

(Some of the following thoughts are from an article by Rosella Stahlhut.)

In just a few days the world will witness an American celebration without equal. The Statue of Liberty has been refurbished, and now we will celebrate the birthday of this grand old gal in an exciting way.

It was one hundred years ago that the people of France presented to the United States "Liberty Enlightening the World," or as it is better known, "The Statue of Liberty." It was given as a birthday present symbolizing their friendship and the liberty citizens enjoy under a free form of government.

The statue represents a proud woman, dressed in a loose robe that falls in graceful folds to the top of the pedestal, on which she stands. In her right hand she holds a torch raised high in the air. In her left arm she grasps a tablet bearing the date of the Declaration of Independence. A crown with huge spikes, like sun rays, rests on her head. At her feet lies a shackle symbolizing the overthrow of tyranny. This symbol of freedom has withstood the storms of time and still holds her torch high, lighting the way to freedom.

There is another statue of liberty. It is made of wood. It was not erected in friendship, but in anger and hatred. It was the cross, on which was nailed our Savior, Jesus Christ. His crown was a crown of thorns. His robe was gambled for by the Roman soldiers. Jesus died on that cross, but the story didn't end there. That cross was only the beginning, for Jesus rose triumphantly over sin and death. The cross, too, has withstood the storms of time and remains a symbol of freedom, pointing the way to heaven. The Word of God is the torch that lights the way. As the nails were driven through Jesus' feet, the shackles of sin were broken. Now Jesus stands with arms outstretched, still lighting the way to freedom.

May we gather in Jesus' name each week to worship him. There, with his people, we will enjoy the gala celebration of true liberty from sin and death that we have through his death and resurrection. May the cross help us to keep first things first this summer!

Peace and Joy,

Pastor Norm
